SCANDALS IN G. O. P. WILL BE REOPENED

Smith Will Speak On "Party Responsibility" At Helena, Montana.

ON BOARD GOV. SMITH'S SPECIAL TRAIN EN-ROUTE TO HELENA, MONT., Sept. 24—(UP) —Governor Alfred E. Smith opened the second week and the second phase of his first campaign tour today when he entered the northwest with a bid for support in this territory where Democratic hopes are running high.

He will speak tonight in the Shrine hall at Helena, take a two-day jump to Minneapolis and St. Paul for a reception at the former and an address in the latter Thursday night, and will close his western tour Saturday night with a speech in Milwaukee, returning then to Rochester for the Democratic state convention Oct. 1. Returning to Albany Oct. 2, he will rest for the remainder of that week and begin his second trip on Oct. 8.

SCANDALS TO BE THEME

In his speech tonight on "Party Responsibility," the Democratic candidate will re-open the "scandal" charges on which John W. Davis passed his 1924 campaign, selecting Montana for this address as the home state of Senators James J. Walsh and Burton K. Wheeler, who conducted the sensational senate investigations into the Teapot Dome, Wyoming, and Elk Hills, California, naval oil reserve leases and the regime of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty.

The New York governor will fire directly tonight at his Republican opponent with a denunciation of the Republican administration of which Herbert Hoover was a member on Hoover's statement that the Republican party always has been "a progressive, constructive party."

SEIZES ON STATEMENT

Smith had intended to raise the "corruption" issue in Montana because it is the state of Walsh and Wheeler, and he has seized the Hoover statement, made in a brief speech to a Maryland delegation, to bring his Republican opponent into the front of the picture.

The Democratic candidate is resorting to tactics of his state campaigns in which he took his opponent's words and made a "text" of them, as he calls it. He has been attempting to draw Hoover out since he came to the west. So he pounced eagerly upon this first utterance of the Republican candidate since he began his first campaign tour.

In the long train journey through Wyoming the Democratic candidate received two large welcomes. He and Mrs. Smith left the train at both Cheyenne and Casper for receptions.

WILL JOIN TRIBE

He appeared on especially constructed platforms at both cities to wave his brown derby and receive a cheer. The Teopot Dome reserve is about 40 miles from Casper.

The train will stop for a welcome today at Billings, where Senator Wheeler is expected to join the party.

As soon as Governor Smith arrives in Helena he will go to the state fair grounds where a large crowd is expected. There he will be made a member of the Blackfoot Indian tribe. He will leave Tuesday morning for Minneapolis and Senator Walsh will accompany him to the border.

ATTEMPTS TO SAVE HAT; BADLY HURT

When Samuel Henry Hill, 17, Paintsville, Ky., attempted to catch his hat when it blew off he fell from the running board of an automobile on which he had been given a lift Sunday and suffered a fractured skull, broken collarbone and possible internal injuries. The name of the persons on whose auto he was riding could not be learned.

The boy came to Ohio Sunday to cut corn with Roy Wright, a companion. The accident occurred about five miles, south of Circleville, on the Scioto Trail.

His injuries were dressed by Dr. Heffner and he was taken to Mt. Carmel hospital in the Mader and Ebert ambulance.

U. S. Ambassador Gets Under Fire In Mexican Fight

Mr. Morrow Caught Between Battle Lines of Federals and Rebels.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 24 —Ambassador Dwight Morrow and Mrs. Morrow have escaped possible injury after being caught between the battle lines of federal troops and bandits on the Cuernavaca-rd.

An eyewitness gave the following account of the incident to the United Press:

The ambassador's automobile was stalled on the highway after leaving Cuernavaca when it was met by Elmer Jones and E. E. Darnielle, Wells-Farco Express Co., representatives.

WARNED OF BATTLE

The Morrows got into Jones' car, left their own machine behind and started up the mountainous roadway in the gathering darkness.

Six miles from Huitzilac they met a truckload of persons who warned them not to proceed as there was a battle going on. Morrow, however, decided to go on and the automobile moved forward slowly.

MORROW HAS COURAGE

As the automobile advanced the party first heard firing and then the patter of bullets striking nearby.

"Morrow took his medicine fine," said the eyewitness.

The ambassador ordered the car stopped and he, Mrs. Morrow and Darnielle retired to the roadside.

Jones walked ahead and saw federal troops entrenched on a roadway several hundred yards away, while the bandits were installed on the highway. The battle position was such that the Morrows actually had been between the firing lines.

CARRY AWAY WOUNDED

Jones saw four or five wounded men carried off during the fighting which lasted half an hour.

After an inspection by Jones and others, Mr. and Mrs. Morrow got into the car and the party proceeded toward Huitzilac. Soldiers detained the party in Huitzilas until a scouting party came back and reported that the highway to Mexico City was safe.

BUS RUNS IN DITCH

Sunday night one of the large Pierce-Arrow busses belonging to the bus line operating between Charleston W. Va., and Columbus slipped in the soft gravel, by the bridge just south of Ashville on the detour and ran into a ditch. No one was injured.

WOMAN DIES AS MACHINE HITS BUGGY

Mrs. Jacob Fosnaugh Killed Saturday Night In Highway Accident.

Mrs. Jacob Fosnaugh, 70, of near Amanda, met almost instant death Saturday about 8 p. m when the buggy in which she was riding with her husband was struck by the machine of Jesse Shue, also of Amanda, on State route 10 near the residence of Sylvester Stires, about four miles east of Lancaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Fosnaugh were returning from Lancaster where they had spent the day with their daughter, Mrs. Cora Gloyd, and Mr. Shue was enroute to Lancaster and was endeavoring to pass another machine when the accident occurred.

DIES AT HOSPITAL

Mr. Shue claimed that he did not see the approaching vehicle until he was upon it and could not stop his car. The Fosnaugh's were driving toward their home and had a lighted lantern on their buggy. Mr. Fosnaugh was also injured but not seriously. The horse's legs were broken and it was shot.

Mrs. Fosnaugh was removed to the Lancaster hospital in an ambulance from that city but only lived a few minutes, not being taken from the stretcher. A large part of her skull was torn away, both legs were broken above the knee and she also suffered numerous cuts and bruises about the body.

DRIVER ARRESTED

Shue was apprehended by the sheriff of Franklin-co, shortly after the accident occurred and was taken to Lancaster where he is being held in the jail pending an investigation.

He was scheduled to have a preliminary hearing Monday and it is thought that a manslaughter charge will be placed against him.

Mrs. Fosnaugh was a native of Hocking-co., and was 70 years of age at the time of her death. She is survived by her husband, 3 sons, Isaac, Theodore and Harry Fosnaugh and 2 daughters, Mrs. Cora Gloyd and Mrs. Blanche Cup all of Lancaster. She is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Alice DeLong and Mrs. Mary Poling of Lancaster and two brothers, Sherman Lantz, of Stoutsville, and Isaac Lantz, of Amanda.

Funeral services for Mrs. Fosnaugh will be held at the United Brethren Church, Lancaster at 2 p. m. Tuesday with interment in Forest Rose cemetery, that city.

ATTRACTION OF NEW CITIZENS OPPORTUNITY FOR CIRCLEVILLE

Getting new citizens of a desirable kind to come to Circleville to live takes more than mere wishing, according to the 4th community-boosting advertisement of the local boosting committee, published in this issue.

Circleville always has the "Welcome" sign displayed for prospective citizens of the right caliber. And the right class of people will be glad to come to Circleville and make their homes here if we make it worth their while.

Several years ago, there was noted a decided tendency on the part of city people to get away from the din, dust and grime of the crowded cities. Suburban property suddenly become more valuable and new towns sprung up almost over night. Others, not content with merely getting on the outskirts of the cities, started moving to the smaller towns farther away from the big centers.

After all, there is something solid behind this movement. Parents in the cities realize the temptations that confront their children and the dangers that lurk in the byways of the metropolitan centers. They prefer the smaller towns because of their clean atmosphere, the closeness to nature and the better advantages for bringing up their children properly.

Then, there are the country folks in this and other communities who, perhaps tiring of the rigors of farm life, decide to move to town and thus enjoy the immediate comforts and advantages of small or medium-sized town life.

It is these kinds of people whom we want to encourage to come to Circleville. Every new family means added progress and prosperity to our town.

Honest government is the foundation of any successful town. Any good government is brought about mainly by every citizen fulfilling his civic duties—going to the polls regularly and supporting any civic movement that makes for betterment of living conditions here.

Support of schools and churches, also, is important for these institutions form the basic structure upon which the fibres of character are built.

A clean city attracts future citizens. Clean streets and clean yards signify a healthy atmosphere, a most important item in impressing the outside world with Circleville's health and progress.

Co-operation and civic pride are good signs for the family man looking for a permanent home. He knows that where everybody works hand in hand and speaks well of the town, there must be a happy, contented populace ambitious to build a real town.

The business interests urge your co-operation and loyalty toward their efforts in boosting the town. And they particularly want you to use your influence in bringing your friends and relatives here as permanent citizens.

Paris Rottenest City in World Declares Aimee After "Sin Tour"

Mrs. McPherson Visits Montmartre and Is Astounded At Revelry.

(By RALPH HEINZEN.)
(Copyright 1928 By United Press)

PARIS, Sept. 24. — Aimee Semple McPherson has deserted Paris for the more placid city of Geneva, but the Montmartre was still stunned today after her whirlwind "sin tour" of the gayest streets in the world.

Up the hill that is the Montmartre went the famed California evangelist, shuddering as she traveled a trail thick with champagne corks, scantily-clad girls and laughter.

In some ways it was similar to the "sin tour" that Mrs. McPherson made in New York, except that she found Paris far more wicked than the American metropolis and was "happy to be an American."

WRITES IMPRESSIONS

"My heart nearly stopped when I saw girls, unclother or nearly so, dancing, singing or riding their chariots all for such pleasures of the flesh," Mrs. McPherson said on her way back to the hotel.

Arriving there she wrote the following impression of her tour for the United Press:

"I stood on the brink of hell tonight and looked down inside.

"Gay Paris is polished on the outside, but it is the rottenest city in the world at the core.

PARIS SEX MAD

"I want to cry from the highest point in Montmartre:

"This city is a veritable Sodom and Gommorrah, but it seems to me that God's patience is being tested and I saw girls, unclothed or nearly so, dancing, singing or riding their chariots all for such pleasures of the flesh," Mrs. McPherson said on her way back to the hotel.

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN FORM COUNTY CLUB

Mrs. Mary G. Morris Is Elected Chairman of Pickaway Organization.

Mrs. Mary G. Morris, recorder of Pickaway-co., was chosen chairman of the Democratic Women's club when they met in the new Democratic headquarters at 116 West Main St., Saturday afternoon.

Other officers selected were Mrs. Guy Heffner, vice chairman, and Miss Alma Glick, secretary.

Mrs. Joseph Cromley, of Ashville, Central Democratic committee woman for the eleventh district, acted as chairman of the meeting and urged all present as members of the executive committee to do their utmost to make Pickaway-county uphold its own as thoroughly Democratic. She stated that, without prejudice, the Democratic platform could easily be viewed as the most liberal to the farmers and Pickaway-county would certainly do all it could for the relief of the farmers who are the backbone of this community.

It has been reported that the rural voters of Pickaway-county would not vote for the Democratic presidential candidate and this Mrs. Cromley denies. She says that they can easily see that the platform of the party which Smith represents is their only hope.

The central committeewomen will also have a meeting within a few days and make their plans.

The next meeting of the executive committee will be held in the Democratic clubrooms on next Saturday night at 8 o'clock and it is hoped that the attendance will be large.

JUDGE REID FACES SEVERE OPERATION

Judge Charles A. Reid, of Fayette-co. common pleas court, Washington C. H., is in Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, suffering from appendicitis.

He was stricken Saturday while holding court in Cleveland and was taken home. Sunday it was decided an operation was necessary and he was taken to the hospital. If his condition will permit he will probably be operated on Monday.

Judge Jones has served for two terms as state representative from Fayette-Co.

ALLEGED SELLERS OF WHISKEY SUED

CHILLICOTHE, Sept. 23 — In a $25,000 damage suit filed in common pleas court here by Mrs. Ciara Davis, a widow, the responsibility for the death of Herbert Davis, 55, Potts Hill farmer, found dead Sept. 14, from acute alcoholism was described to Lowe Thompson and Robert Ambrose Morris, Milledgeville.

She alleges the defendants "willfully, carelessly and unlawfully" furnished her husband intoxicating liquor of "such ingredients and quantity" and "induced him to drink, thereby causing his death."

CONTINUES ATTACK ON SMITH'S RECORD

Mrs. Willebrandt Says N. Y. Governor Is Hiding Behind Church.

LORAIN, O., Sept. 24.—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant U. S. attorney general, plans to continue her verbal barrage against Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential nominee, by following up her charges that Smith is "hiding behind his church" because he is afraid to face his record as "a champion of the liquor traffic."

Mrs. Willebrandt made these charges in an address to a conference of Methodist ministers here last night. Tonight she addresses the Westminster Men' club at Warren, Ohio.

"As an officer of the government, I have been engaged for seven years in defending the constitution against nullification and attack," Mrs. Willebrandt said in her speech here. "Governor Smith has become the greatest force for disregard of the prohibition laws in America today.

"As such he draws my opposition. Religion has nothing to do with my attack on him, or the attack of the dry forces. We condemn him for his own record, acts and utterances. These make him wince. So he seeks to shield himself and his record behind a religious issue—an issue he himself raises unfairly in this campaign."

SEVERELY CUT IN CRASH OF AUTOS

B. P. Gilroy, employe at the Clifton Auto Sales Co., narrowly escaped serious injury Saturday evening when his auto was struck by a Ford coupe and upset at Washington and Mound-sts.

Gilroy was driving north on Washington when the accident occurred. The coupe struck his left rear fender. The name of the driver of the coupe could not be learned.

Mr. Gilroy suffered several severe cuts on the head. Dr. Jackson attended his injuries.

PLUMBER IS BADLY BRUISED IN FALL

Roy McMullen, plumber, W. Main-st. suffered a badly bruised side Saturday when he fell from a step ladder in the rear of his shop.

Mr. McMullen had placed the ladder up to a high shelf and when on the ladder a step broke. He grabbed a box and fell with it under his side. It is said he was unconscious for some time before he was found by O. S. Howard.

SCORES ARE TRAPPED AS STAIRS FALL

Sunday Comedy Turned To Tragedy In Madrid Amusement House.

(BULLETIN)

MADRID, Sept. 24—(UP)—The death list in the Novedades theater fire and panic reached 67 this evening with the finding of two more bodies in the ruins and the death of eight more of the injured. About 234 others were injured.

MADRID, Sept. 24.—(UP)—Madrid's largest theater, the Novedades, filled with men, women and children laughing at a gay comedy, caught fire during the performance last night.

The fire spread through the Ancient building with terrible rapidity. Spectators on the upper floors had little chance to escape, and the main stairway collapsed under the rush of fear-maddened people.

Bodies were still being recovered from the ruins today. Shortly before noon, the casualty list included 57 dead and 242 injured. Many of the injured were expected to die.

LANTERN STARTS FIRE

Among the bodies recovered, many of them unidentified, were 26 men, 22 women and nine children.

The Novedades theater on Toledo street, in the lower section of the city, holds 1,800 people. It was well-filled for the Sunday night performance.

During the last act, when the comedy was near its end, a [illegible] The flimsy scenery took fire. Either the fireproof curtain failed to work or the attendant whose duty it was to lower it was not at his post.

The first the audience knew of the fire was when smoke billowed into the auditorium. People screamed and there was a rush for the exits. Most of those on the orchestra floor managed to reach the streets, but the stairways would not hold the rush from the crowded balconies.

STAIRWAY COLLAPSES

During the jam, the main stairway collapsed with its load of struggling people. The woodwork of the theater, which is the oldest in the city, was like tinder, and the flames leaped through the auditorium, helped in their spread by the hanging draperies and curtains.

Those caught when the staircase collapsed were burned to death. Many bodies as well as persons still living, were taken from the ruins of the staircase.

The panic was indescribable. Survivors said many persons in the balconies, unable to fight their way through the mob at the exits, leaped to the lower floor, which by that time was in flames. Others were thrown into the struggling mass of humanity in the pit when the balconies collapsed.

FIREMEN HELPLESS

Word of the disaster spread through Madrid and the streets outside were crowded with anxious relatives of those who had attended the performance. Premier Primo DeRivera and other officials arrived to give help.

It was impossible to penetrate the blazing buildings and firemen were obliged to watch people burn to death without being able to assist them. The fire was under control early today and rescuers were able to bring out the dead and injured. Hospitals and clinics in all parts of Madrid cared for the victims.

SUFFERS BROKEN SHOULDER IN FALL

Miss Elizabeth Allen, 71, of Williamsport, an aunt of Mr. Hershel Alkire, Circleville, suffered a compound fracture of the right shoulder Monday morning when she fell over a board while working in the garden at her home. She was brought to Circleville and an X-ray was taken of the injury by Dr. Courtright. Later she was taken to Mercy hospital, Columbus, in the W. H. Altaugh ambulance.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 24—(UP)—Relief workers in the hurricane stricken area of Florida centered their efforts today at Pelican Bay, on Lake Okeechobee, where it is feared all the 450 residents of that small fishing and farming community had been drowned.

Returning to Albany Oct. 2, he will rest for the remainder of that week and begin his second trip on Oct. 8.

SCANDALS TO BE THEME

In his speech tonight on "Party Responsibility," the Democratic candidate will re-open the "scandal" charges on which John W. Davis passed his 1924 campaign, selecting Montana for this address as the home state of Senators James J. Walsh and Burton K. Wheeler, who conducted the sensational senate investigations into the Teapot Dome, Wyoming, and Elk Hills, California, naval oil reserve leases and the regime of former Atterney General Harry M. Daugherty.

The New York governor will fire directly tonight at his Republican opponent with a denunciation of the Republican administration of which Herbert Hoover was a member on Hoover's statement that the Republican party always has been "a progressive, constructive party."

SEIZES ON STATEMENT

Smith had intended to raise the "corruption" issue in Montana because it is the state of Walsh and Wheeler, and he has seized the Hoover statement, made in a brief speech to a Maryland delegation, to bring his Republican opponent into the front of the picture.

The Democratic candidate is resorting to tactics of his state campaigns in which he took his opponent's words and made a "text" of them, as he calls it. He has been attempting to draw Hoover out since he came to the west. So he pounced eagerly upon this first utterance of the Republican candidate since he began his first campaign tour.

In the long train journey through Wyoming the Democratic candidate received two large welcomes. He and Mrs. Smith left the train at both Cheyenne and Casper for receptions.

WILL JOIN TRIBE

He appeared on especially constructed platforms at both cities to wave his brown derby and receive a cheer. The Teopot Dome reserve is about 40 miles from Casper.

The train will stop for a welcome today at Billings, where Senator Wheeler is expected to join the party.

As soon as Governor Smith arrives in Helena he will go to the state fair grounds where a large crowd is expected. There he will be made a member of the Blackfoot Indian tribe. He will leave Tuesday morning for Minneapolis and Senator Walsh will accompany him to the border.

ATTEMPTS TO SAVE HAT; BADLY HURT

When Samuel Henry Hill, 17, Paintsville, Ky., attempted to catch his hat when it blew off he fell from the running board of an automobile on which he had been given a lift Sunday and suffered a fractured skull, broken collarbone and possible internal injuries. The name of the persons on whose auto he was riding could not be learned.

The boy came to Ohio Sunday to cut corn with Roy Wright, a companion. The accident occurred about five miles, south of Circleville, on the Scioto Trail.

His injuries were dressed by Dr. Heffner and he was taken to Mt. Carmel hospital in the Mader and Ebert ambulance.

U. S. Ambassador Gets Under Fire In Mexican Fight

Mr. Morrow Caught Between Battle Lines of Federals and Rebels.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 24 —Ambassador Dwight Morrow and Mrs. Morrow have escaped possible injury after being caught between the battle lines of federal troops and bandits on the Cuernavaca-rd.

An eyewitness gave the following account of the incident to the United Press:

The ambassador's automobile was stalled on the highway after leaving Cuernavaca when it was met by Elmer Jones and E. E. Darnielle, Wells-Farco Express Co., representatives.

WARNED OF BATTLE

The Morrows got into Jones' car, left their own machine behind and started up the mountainous roadway in the gathering darkness.

Six miles from Huitzilac they met a truckload of persons who warned them not to proceed as there was a battle going on. Morrow, however, decided to go on and the automobile moved forward slowly.

MORROW HAS COURAGE

As the automobile advanced the party first heard firing and then the patter of bullets striking nearby.

"Morrow took his medicine fine," said the eyewitness.

The ambassador ordered the car stopped and he, Mrs. Morrow and Darnielle retired to the roadside.

Jones walked ahead and saw federal troops entrenched on a roadway several hundred yards away, while the bandits were installed on the highway. The battle position was such that the Morrows actually had been between the firing lines.

CARRY AWAY WOUNDED

Jones saw four or five wounded men carried off during the fighting which lasted half an hour.

After an inspection by Jones and others, Mr. and Mrs. Morrow got into the car and the party proceeded toward Huitzilac. Soldiers detained the party in Huitzilas until a scouting party came back and reported that the highway to Mexico City was safe.

BUS RUNS IN DITCH

Sunday night one of the large Pierce-Arrow busses belonging to the bus line operating between Charleston W. Va., and Columbus slipped in the soft gravel, by the bridge just south of Ashville on the detour and ran into a ditch. No one was injured.

WOMAN DIES AS MACHINE HITS BUGGY

Mrs. Jacob Fosnaugh Killed Saturday Night In Highway Accident.

Mrs. Jacob Fosnaugh, 70, of near Amanda, met almost instant death Saturday about 8 p. m when the buggy in which she was riding with her husband was struck by the machine of Jesse Shue, also of Amanda, on State route 10 near the residence of Sylvester Stires, about four miles east of Lancaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Fosnaugh were returning from Lancaster where they had spent the day with their daughter, Mrs. Cora Gloyd, and Mr. Shue was enroute to Lancaster and was endeavoring to pass another machine when the accident occurred.

DIES AT HOSPITAL

Mr. Shue claimed that he did not see the approaching vehicle until he was upon it and could not stop his car. The Fosnaugh's were driving toward their home and had a lighted lantern on their buggy. Mr. Fosnaugh was also injured but not seriously. The horse's legs were broken and it was shot.

Mrs. Fosnaugh was removed to the Lancaster hospital in an ambulance from that city but only lived a few minutes, not being taken from the stretcher. A large part of her skull was torn away, both legs were broken above the knee and she also suffered numerous cuts and bruises about the body.

DRIVER ARRESTED

Shue was apprehended by the sheriff of Franklin-co, shortly after the accident occurred and was taken to Lancaster where he is being held in the jail pending an investigation.

He was scheduled to have a preliminary hearing Monday and it is thought that a manslaughter charge will be placed against him.

Mrs. Fosnaugh was a native of Hocking-co., and was 70 years of age at the time of her death. She is survived by her husband, 3 sons, Isaac, Theodore and Harry Fosnaugh and 2 daughters, Mrs. Cora Gloyd and Mrs. Blanche Cup all of Lancaster. She is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Alice DeLong and Mrs. Mary Poling of Lancaster and two brothers, Sherman Lantz, of Stoutsville, and Isaac Lantz, of Amanda.

Funeral services for Mrs. Fosnaugh will be held at the United Brethren Church, Lancaster at 2 p. m. Tuesday with interment in Forest Rose cemetery, that city.

ATTRACTION OF NEW CITIZENS OPPORTUNITY FOR CIRCLEVILLE

Getting new citizens of a desirable kind to come to Circleville to live takes more than mere wishing, according to the 4th community-boosting advertisement of the local boosting committee, published in this issue.

Circleville always has the "Welcome" sign displayed for prospective citizens of the right caliber. And the right class of people will be glad to come to Circleville and make their homes here if we make it worth their while.

Several years ago, there was noted a decided tendency on the part of city people to get away from the din, dust and grime of the crowded cities. Suburban property suddenly become more valuable and new towns sprung up almost over night. Others, not content with merely getting on the outskirts of the cities, started moving to the smaller towns farther away from the big centers.

After all, there is something solid behind this movement. Parents in the cities realize the temptations that confront their children and the dangers that lurk in the byways of the metropolitan centers. They prefer the smaller towns because of their clean atmosphere, the closness to nature and the better advantages for bringing up their children properly.

Then, there are the country folks in this and other communities who, perhaps tiring of the rigors of farm life, decide to move to town and thus enjoy the immediate comforts and advantages of small or medium-sized town life.

It is these kinds of people whom we want to encourage to come to Circleville. Every new family means added progress and prosperity to our town.

Honest government is the foundation of any successful town. Any good government is brought about mainly by every citizen fulfilling his civic duties—going to the polls regularly and supporting any civic movement that makes for betterment of living conditions here.

Support of schools and churches, also, is important for these institutions form the basic structure upon which the fibres of character are built.

A clean city attracts future citizens. Clean streets and clean yards signify a healthy atmosphere, a most important item in impressing the outside world with (Circleville's) health and progress.

Co-operation and civic pride are good signs for the family man looking for a permanent home. He knows that where everybody works hand in hand and speaks well of the town, there must be a happy, contented populace ambitious to build a real town.

The business interests urge your co-operation and loyalty toward their efforts in boosting the town. And they particularly want you to use your influence in bringing your friends and relatives here as permanent citizens.

Paris Rottenest City in World Declares Aimee After "Sin Tour"

Mrs. McPherson Visits Montmartre and Is Astounded At Revelry.

(By RALPH HEINZEN.)
(Copyright 1928 By United Press)

PARIS, Sept. 24. — Aimee Semple McPherson has deserted Paris for the more placid city of Geneva, but the Montmartre was still stunned today after her whirlwind "sin tour" of the gayest streets in the world.

Up the hill that is the Montmartre went the famed California evangelist, shuddering as she traveled a trail thick with champagne corks, scantily-clad girls and laughter.

In some ways it was similar to the "sin tour" that Mrs. McPherson made in New York, except that she found Paris far more wicked than the American metropolis and was "happy to be an American."

WRITES IMPRESSIONS

"My heart nearly stopped when I saw girls, unclother or nearly so, dancing, singing or riding their chariots all for such pleasures of the flesh," Mrs. McPherson said on her way back to the hotel.

Arriving there she wrote the following impression of her tour for the United Press:

"I stood on the brink of hell tonight and looked down inside.

"Gay Paris is polished on the outside, but it is the rottenest city in the world at the core.

PARIS SEX MAD

"I want to cry from the highest point in Montmartre:

"This city is a veritable Sodom and Gommorrah, but it seems to me that God's patience is being tested and I saw girls, unclothed or nearly struction. Your revelry will burst like the bubbles in your champagne glasses; like your toy balloons you burst with cigarette tips overhead.

"Satan has blinded you.

"You are sex mad.

"You have forgotten civilization.

"You have reverted to animals, but I know you are hungry for religion and some day I will come back and try to save a few souls."

"I suffered to see those young girls whose lips quivered under

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN FORM COUNTY CLUB

Mrs. Mary G. Morris Is Elected Chairman of Pickaway Organization.

Mrs. Mary G. Morris, recorder of Pickaway-co., was chosen chairman of the Democratic Women's club when they met in the new Democratic headquarters at 116 West Main St., Saturday afternoon.

Other officers selected were Mrs. Guy Heffner, vice chairman, and Miss Alma Glick, secretary.

Mrs. Joseph Cromley, of Ashville, Central Democratic committee woman for the eleventh district, acted as chairman of the meeting and urged all present as members of the executive committee to do their utmost to make Pickaway-county uphold its own as thoroughly Democratic. She stated that, without prejudice, the Democratic platform could easily be viewed as the most liberal to the farmers and Pickaway-county would certainly do all it could for the relief of the farmers who are the backbone of this community.

It has been reported that the rural voters of Pickaway-county would not vote for the Democratic presidential candidate and this Mrs. Cromley denies. She says that they can easily see that the platform of the party which Smith represents is their only hope.

The central committeewomen will also have a meeting within a few days and make their plans.

The next meeting of the executive committee will be held in the Democratic clubrooms on next Saturday night at 8 o'clock and it is hoped that the attendance will be large.

JUDGE REID FACES SEVERE OPERATION

Judge Charles A. Reid, of Fayette-co. common pleas court, Washington C. H., is in Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, suffering from appendicitis.

He was stricken Saturday while holding court in Cleveland and was taken home. Sunday it was decided an operation was necessary and he was taken to the hospital. If his condition will permit he will probably be operated on Monday.

Judge Jones has served for two terms as state representative from Fayette-Co.

ALLEGED SELLERS OF WHISKEY SUED

CHILLICOTHE, Sept. 23 — In a $25,000 damage suit filed in common pleas court here by Mrs. Clara Davis, a widow, the responsibility for the death of Herbert Davis, 63, Potts Hill farmer, found dead Sept. 14, from acute alcoholism was described to Lowe Thompson and Robert Ambrose Morris, Milledgeville.

She alleges the defendants "wilfully, carelessly and unlawfully" furnished her husband intoxicating liquor of "such ingredients and quantity" and "induced him to drink, thereby causing his death."

CONTINUES ATTACK ON SMITH'S RECORD

Mrs. Willebrandt Says. N. Y. Governor Is Hiding Behind Church.

LORAIN, O., Sept. 24.—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant U. S. attorney general, plans to continue her verbal barrage against Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential nominee, by following up her charges that Smith is "hiding behind his church" because he is afraid to face his record as "a champion of the liquor traffic."

Mrs. Willebrandt made these charges in an address to a conference of Methodist ministers here last night. Tonight she addresses the Westminster Men' club at Warren, Ohio.

"As an officer of the government, I have been engaged for seven years in defending the constitution against nullification and attack," Mrs. Willebrandt said in her speech here. "Governor Smith has become the greatest force for disregard of the prohibition laws in America today.

"As such he draws my opposition. Religion has nothing to do with my attack on him, or the attack of the dry forces. We condemn him for his own record, acts and utterances. These make him wince. So he seeks to shield himself and his record behind a religious issue—an issue he himself raises unfairly in this campaign."

SEVERELY CUT IN CRASH OF AUTOS

B. P. Gilroy, employe at the Clifton Auto Sales Co., narrowly escaped serious injury Saturday evening when his auto was struck by a Ford coupe and upset at Washington and Mound-sts.

Gilroy was driving north on Washington when the accident occurred. The coupe struck his left rear fender. The name of the driver of the coupe could not be learned.

Mr. Gilroy suffered several severe cuts on the head. Dr. Jackson attended his injuries.

PLUMBER IS BADLY BRUISED IN FALL

Roy McMullen, plumber, W. Main-st. suffered a badly bruised side Saturday when he fell from a step ladder in the rear of his shop.

Mr. McMullen had placed the ladder up to a high shelf and when on the ladder a step broke. He grabbed a box and fell with it under his side. It is said he was unconscious for some time before he was found by O. S. Howard.

SCORES ARE TRAPPED AS STAIRS FALL

Sunday Comedy Turned To Tragedy In Madrid Amusement House.

(BULLETIN)
MADRID, Sept. 24—(UP)—The death list in the Novedades theater fire and panic reached 67 this evening with the finding of two more bodies in the ruins and the death of eight more of the injured. About 234 others were injured.

MADRID, Sept. 24.— (UP)— Madrid's largest theater, the Novedades, filled with men, women and children laughing at a gay comedy, caught fire during the performance last night.

The fire spread through the Ancient building with terrible rapidity. Spectators on the upper floors had little chance to escape, and the main stairway collapsed under the rush of fear-maddened people.

Bodies were still being recovered from the ruins today. Shortly before noon, the casualty list included 57 dead and 242 injured. Many of the injured were expected to die.

LANTERN STARTS FIRE

Among the bodies recovered, many of them unidentified, were 26 men, 22 women and nine children.

The Novedades theater, on Toledo street, in the lower section of the city, holds 1,800 people. It was well-filled for the Sunday night performance.

During the last act, when the comedy was near its end, a lantern backstage ignited a curtain. The flimsy scenery took fire. Either the fireproof curtain failed to work or the attendant whose duty it was to lower it was not at his post.

The first the audience knew of the fire was when smoke billowed into the auditorium. People screamed and there was a rush for the exits. Most of those on the orchestra floor managed to reach the streets, but the stairways would not hold the rush from the crowded balconies.

STAIRWAY COLLAPSES

During the jam, the main stairway collapsed with its load of struggling people. The woodwork of the theater, which is the oldest in the city, was like tinder, and the flames leaped through the auditorium, helped in their spread by the hanging draperies and curtains.

Those caught when the staircase collapsed were burned to death. Many bodies as well as persons still living, were taken from the ruins of the staircase.

The panic was indescribable. Survivors said many persons in the balconies, unable to fight their way through the mob at the exits, leaped to the lower floor, which by that time was in flames. Others were thrown into the struggling mass of humanity in the pit when the balconies collapsed.

FIREMEN HELPLESS

Word of the disaster spread through Madrid and the streets outside were crowded with anxious relatives of those who had attended the performance. Premier Primo DeRivera and other officials arrived to give help.

It was impossible to penetrate the blazing buildings and firemen were obliged to watch people burn to death without being able to assist them. The fire was under control early today and rescuers were able to bring out the dead and injured. Hospitals and clinics in all parts of Madrid cared for the victims.

SUFFERS BROKEN SHOULDER IN FALL

Miss Elizabeth Allen, 71, of Williamsport, an aunt of Mr. Hershel Alkire, Circleville, suffered a compound fracture of the right shoulder Monday morning when she fell over a board while working in the garden at her home. She was brought to Circleville and an X-ray was taken of the injury by Dr. Courtright. Later she was taken to Mercy hospital, Columbus, in the W. H. Albaugh ambulance.

Circleville Invites Good Citizens!

There is always room in any ambitious town for new citizens. And Circleville invites people of good character to come and live here.

Folks from the large and medium sized cities are looking countryward for their future homes. They prefer the peace and contentment of the smaller towns, the pure, unsullied air, the better surroundings for children, and the increased joys of living.

Circleville can bring many of these home seekers into its fold. But we must show them the things that are desirable to new citizens.

Honest government, good schools and churches, a physically and morally clean city, plenty of employment, attractive streets, opportunities for growing children, civic pride and genuine co-operation toward a constantly advancing community—are the things that induce substantial citizens to make their homes here.

Attaining and maintaining these civic qualities depend on the INDIVIDUAL EFFORT AND CO-OPERATION given by our present citizens. LET's all work towards our Ideal City and then be enthusiastic in boosting our town orally at every opportunity.

We, the undersigned, Believers in Circleville, heartily endorse the above:

YANKS, CARDS EXPECTED TO PLAY SERIES

Athletics and Giants Are Right On Heels of League Leaders.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24--All signs point to revival of the 1926 World Series between the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals.

Entering the final week of the 1928 baseball season, the Yankees hold a 2-game lead over the Philadelphia Athletics and the Cardinals hold a 1-game lead over the New York Giants. The season ends in both leagues next Sunday.

Neither team can afford to slacken its pace, but both leaders appear to have the strength left to send them across the wire in front. The Yanks need only five victories out of their seven remaining games to clinch the pennant, while the Cards must win all seven of their games to take the flag, provided the two contenders in both leagues win all their remaining games.

YANKS CRIPPLED

The Yanks are crippled and their pitching staff is shot, but they refuse to quit fighting and nothing less than a complete collapse can knock them off the top. Babe Ruth has an injury, Mark Koenig has a sprained ankle, and Tony Lazzeri is still nursing his old shoulder injury, but they are staying in there every day.

George Pigras and Waite Hoyt have been forced to divide the pitching burden, not only starting games but acting frequently in relief roles. Al Shealy, sent to St. Paul in the trade for Fred Heimach, is back with the Yanks and may help out the pitching problem.

The Yanks have two more games with the Indians and then they move to Detroit to wind up the season with a 5-game series against the Tigers.

GIANTS ARE GAME

The Athletics have practically tossed away their last opportunity and must win all of their six remaining games to have any chance, depending on what the Yanks do in their games.

Another shining example of grit and courage is on display in the National league where the Giants are hanging onto the heels of the Cardinals.

The Giants had to go 14 innings to beat the Reds yesterday, but that indefatigable Swede, Freddy Lindstrom, kept striving until he started a winning rally with a single in the last inning.

If the Giants can win the rest of their games up to the final game of the season with the Cardinals at the Polo grounds next Sunday, the National league race may end in a tie.

The Giants have seven games left, two with Cincinnati, four with Chicago and one with St. Louis. On the other hand, the Cards have six games with second division teams, three each against the Robins and Braves, and the final game with the Giants.

WOMEN STARS OF GOLF IN TOURNEY

Six Former Champions Are Listed Among Players Seeking Title.

CASCADES GOLF CLUB, HOT SPRINGS, Va., Sept. 24—Six former champs, the defending champion, and 109 other feminine golf stars today awaited their turns to tee off in the 1928 women's golf championship. The first players scheduled were Miss Helen Hicks, of the Salisbury Country club.

Within intervals of five minutes, until 1:45 p.m. Twosomes of golf stars will make their drives for the championship. So much good golf has been played by so many of the contestants that there is no pronounced favorite.

Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn, of Kansas City, defending champion, will be one of the foremost contenders. But, she faces the precedent of the golf champ who is not supposed to repeat.

Par for the Cascades course is 82. A score of 90 is expected to place a player in the championship fight.

Yesterday's hero: Travis Jackson, New York Giants shortstop who kept Giants in the National league pennant race by breaking up a pitcher's duel between Adolfo Luque and Joe Genewich with a single in the fourteenth inning which scored Lindstrom with the run by which the McGrawmen beat the Cincinnati Reds, 2 to 1. Joe Stripp's home run in the seventh was the only run made off Genewich.

Jess Haines let the Brooklyn Robins down with three singles, the St. Louis Cardinals winning and maintaining their one game lead over the Giants. The score was 7 to 1. Jim Bottomley hit his thirtieth home run of the season with two mates on base. Bottomley and Hack Wilson of the Cubs are now tied for the National league leadership in home runs.

Waite Hoyt blanked the Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees held their two-game lead over the Philadelphia Athletics Joe Shaute held the Yanks scoreless for four innings, but weakened in the late innings. The score was 5 to 0.

Jimmy Dykes' home run in the ninth with two men on helped the Philadelphia Athletics beat the St. Louis Browns, 11 to 7. Hauser and Foxx also hit home runs

Phil Page, recruit southpaw from the Springfield Eastern League club, won his second game in two starts by pitching the Detroit Tigers to a 4 to 1 victory over Boston Red Sox.

The Chicago White Sox went into a tie for fourth place with the Washington Senators by beating the Griffmen 8 to 3. Ted Lyons held the Senators to eight hits.

No other games were played.

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY

For the first time since 1911, when Harold H. Hilton won the United States amateur championship, Great Britain has had a finalist in the amateur golf classic of America.

That came when Thomas Phillip Perkins, 24-year-old amateur champion of England doffed his cap on the 14th green of the Brae Burn Country Club course and received the outstretched hand of George Voigt, whom he had just defeated, 6 and 4, in the semi-finals round.

It is beside the point that Bobby Jones came back on the following day and trimmed Perkins 10 up and 9 to play.

Less than a month ago at the Chicago Golf Club, Jones and Perkins, playing No. 1 respectively for the American and British Walker Cup teams engaged in a match that was won by Jones, 3 up and 12 to play, the most decisive defeat in the history of Walker Cup matches.

Perkins Has Gameness

Perkins, however, is a game golfer and the hope that he might be matched with Jones again caused him to remain in America for the amateur championship.

In disposing of Voigt the Englishman's game was never better. Jones said on the eve of the championship round that his victory in the Walker Cup match meant little. It seemed that Jones was right when he shouted a warning in Chicago to, "Look out for Perkins." Jones was of the impression that the Perkins who went down to defeat in Chicago was far from the chap who won the British amateur title last spring.

Perkins made no excuses for his play in the Walker Cup matches. It was generally thought that the sea voyage had quite a bit to do with his showing. It will be remembered that the British team was in America only a few days prior to the matches. "I'm awfully glad to be in the final and more than pleased that I am to play Bobby Jones. Everybody has been so nice to me here in America. Voigt? Ah, yes, a grand golfer. Unlucky too, to have me run down some putts just when I needed them most."

Played Jones, Not Golf

As for the final match. It was just another game for Bobby Jones. To the Englishman, he was [illegible] face with Bobby Jones, the greatest amateur golfer the world has known. If Perkins had gone out and played his game he could have given the Georgia phenomenon a great match. Perkins however tried to play Jones and the result was just another amateur title for the American.

Perkins had the chance Harold Hilton grabbed seventeen years ago. Hilton won the American championship over the Apawamis Club course, defeating Fred Herreshoff in the final round on the thirty-seventh green. No British golfer has ever come close to winning until Perkins appeared on the scene this year. The British player deserved his shot at fame. He had to fight every foot of the way to reach the final round.

Another factor in the fate of the British golfers. There was no Bobby Jones to be dealt with when Hilton won the title in 1911.

TWO BATTLES ARE SOUGHT BY TEX

New York Promoter Plans Ristic Engagement For Joe Dundee.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—Tex Rickard expected to close for two important boxing matches today, one a title bout involving the jinx champion of the ring, Joe Dundee of Baltimore.

Rickard has Jack Thompson, California negro conqueror of Dundee, signed to meet any opponent named and was to confer with Max Waxman, Dundee's manager, in hopes of signing the champion today.

The welterweight title bout was planned for Nov. 16 over the 15-round route and at 147 pounds.

If Waxman refuses to sign for Dundee, Rickard, through his matchmaker, Tom McArdle, may ask the New York state athletic commission to declare Dundee null and void as champion and have Thompson meet the winner of the return bout between Sgt. Sammy Baker and Young Corbett, III, for the title.

The other important bout entertained by Rickard was a heavyweight contest between Paolino Uzcudun and Young Stribling, the Georgia flash. Rickard has Paolino signed for three bouts, and Pa Stribling was expected to sign today for his son to meet the Spaniard.

CIRCLEVILLE IS VICTOR BY WIDE MARGIN

Fast Gridiron Contest Ends With Local Team Leading 25 To 0.

The Circleville Merchants gave the Washington C. H. Independents a sound walloping Sunday in a spectacular game of football, filled with many times-outs on both sides.

The final score was 25 to 0 in favor of the Merchants and the game was not nearly so one sided as the score denotes.

The game was filled with fast plays. Circleville kicked, and Washington returned nicely. Watson intercepted a pass and a series of line bucks put the ball in the shadow of the goal, but Circleville fumbled and Washington recovered. The game had many such plays and the Merchant team showed they could play real football.

Smith, the elongated ball toter from Clarksburg, was inserted into the Merchants line-up and his brilliant playing was a revelation to football fans the rest of the afternoon. He is a triple threat man and was responsible for one touchdown, making two himself and one point after a touchdown.

The score by quarters was 0-0, 0-7, 0-6, 0-12.

The line-up follows:

Merchants	P.	Washington C. H.
Ryan	L. E.	Alkire
Watson	R. E.	Smith

Merriman	Q.	Baughn
Smith	R. H.	Arnold

McCrady	F.	Kinnon

Smith, Merriman, McCrady, Hancher and Watson were the stars for the locals while McLean Pensyl, Baughn and Kinnon starred for the Independents.

INDIANAPOLIS TO PLAY ROCHESTER

Red Wings Win International Pennant By Fractional Margin.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 24—Rochester began making preparations today for the opening of "the Little World series," here Wednesday between the Rochester Red Wings, champions of the International League, and Indianapolis, champions of the American Association.

Rochester won the International League pennant yesterday at Montreal by defeating the Royals twice on the last day of the season, 5 to 2 and 6 to 0. Billy Southworth, former New York Giant and St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, piloted the Red Wings to the first pennant Rochester has won in 17 years.

Buffalo won its last game from Toronto, but Rochester finished a fraction more than 1-1000 of a point ahead of Buffalo because Rochester has played four fewer games than the 1927 champions.

The final standing follows:

TEAM	W	L	PCT.
Rochester	90	74	.5487
Buffalo	92	76	.5476

Herman Bell, former St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, was the hero of Rochester's last minute drive to the top of the league. He pitched both games yesterday, holding Montreal scoreless after the first inning of the first game. He allowed three hits in the first game and five in the second. Hank Gowdy, who played with the Boston Braves in 1914, caught both games for Rochester.

Canada's imports from the United States in June were valued at $75,472,000.

WAS IN DISPAIR BUT IN KONJOLA HE FOUND HEALTH
For Two Years This Man Was Able To Work Only Half The Time.

MR. WILLIAM ELSMAN.

"I am glad to have the opportunity to indorse such a splendid medicine as Konjola because it has restored my health in every way," said Mr. William Elsman, 20 North Western avenue, Dayton, Ohio.

"For years, I was a victim of stomach trouble, so severe that many times, I was only able to walk two or three days a week. The gas that formed after meals would bloat me so much I often gasped for breath. Medicines of all kind failed to help me and I thought that I would never be relieved of my troubles.

"Before I finished the first bottle of Konjola, my pains had vanished. The cramping spells disappeared and I could hardly believe it. Now I have taken a whole treatment and my stomach is in perfect condition so that I can work day after day and eat whatever I please without suffering the least bit. Konjola has surely proven a wonderful medicine for me."

Konjola is sold in Circleville, O. at Mykrantz Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

YANKS, CARDS EXPECTED TO PLAY SERIES

Athletics and Giants Are Right On Heels of League Leaders.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24--All signs point to revival of the 1926 World Series between the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals.

Entering the final week of the 1928 baseball season, the Yankees hold a 2-game lead over the Philadelphia Athletics and the Cardinals hold a 1-game lead over the New York Giants. The season ends in both leagues next Sunday.

Neither team can afford to slacken its pace, but both leaders appear to have the strength left to send them across the wire in front. The Yanks need only five victories out of their seven remaining games to clinch the pennant, while the Cards must win all seven of their games to take the flag, provided the two contenders in both leagues win all their remaining games.

YANKS CRIPPLED

The Yanks are crippled and their pitching staff is shot, but they refuse to quit fighting and nothing less than a complete collapse can knock them off the top. Babe Ruth has an injury, Mark Koenig has a sprained ankle, and Tony Lazzeri is still nursing his old shoulder injury, but they are staying in there every day.

George Pigras and Waite Hoyt have been forced to divide the pitching burden, not only starting games but acting frequently in relief roles. Al Shealy, sent to St. Paul in the trade for Fred Heimach, is back with the Yanks and may help out the pitching problem.

The Yanks have two more games with the Indians and then they move to Detroit to wind up the season with a 5-game series against the Tigers.

GIANTS ARE GAME

The Athletics have practically tossed away their last opportunity and must win all of their six remaining games to have any chance, depending on what the Yanks do in their games.

Another shining example of grit and courage is on display in the National league where the Giants are hanging onto the heels of the Cardinals.

The Giants had to go 14 innings to beat the Reds yesterday, but that indefatigable Swede, Freddy Lindstrom, kept striving until he started a winning rally with a single in the last inning.

If the Giants can win the rest of their games up to the final game of the season with the Cardinals at the Polo grounds next Sunday, the National league race may end in a tie.

The Giants have seven games left, two with Cincinnati, four with Chicago and one with St. Louis. On the other hand, the Cards have six games with second division teams, three each against the Robins and Braves, and the final game with the Giants.

WOMEN STARS OF GOLF IN TOURNEY

Six Former Champions Are Listed Among Players Seeking Title.

CASCADES GOLF CLUB, HOT SPRINGS, Va., Sept. 24—Six former champs, the defending champion, and 109 other feminine golf stars today awaited their turns to tee off in the 1928 women's golf championship. The first players scheduled were Miss Helen Hicks, of the Salisbury Country club.

Within intervals of five minutes, until 1:45 p.m. Twosomes of golf stars will make their drives for the championship. So much good golf has been played by so many of the contestants that there is no pronounced favorite.

Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn, of Kansas City, defending champion, will be one of the foremost contenders. But, she faces the precedent of the golf champ who is not supposed to repeat.

Par for the Cascades course is 82. A score of 90 is expected to place a player in the championship fight.

Baseball

By United Press

Yesterday's hero: Travis Jackson, New York Giants shortstop who kept Giants in the National league pennant race by breaking up a pitcher's duel between Adolfo Luque and Joe Genewich with a single in the fourteenth inning which scored Lindstrom with the run by which the McGrawmen beat the Cincinnati Reds, 2 to 1. Joe Stripp's home run in the seventh was the only run made off Genewich.

Jess Haines let the Brooklyn Robins down with three singles, the St. Louis Cardinals winning and maintaining their one game lead over the Giants. The score was 7 to 1. Jim Bottomley hit his thirtieth home run of the season with two mates on base. Bottomley and Hack Wilson of the Cubs are now tied for the National league leadership in home runs.

Waite Hoyt blanked the Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees held their two-game lead over the Philadelphia Athletics. Joe Shaute held the Yanks scoreless for four innings, but weakened in the late innings. The score was 5 to 0.

Jimmy Dykes' home run in the ninth with two men on helped the Philadelphia Athletics beat the St. Louis Browns, 11 to 7. Hauser and Foxx also hit home runs

Phil Page, recruit southpaw from the Springfield Eastern League club, won his second game in two starts by pitching the Detroit Tigers to a 4 to 1 victory over Boston Red Sox.

The Chicago White Sox went into a tie for fourth place with the Washington Senators by beating the Griffmen 8 to 3. Ted Lyons held the Senators to eight hits.

No other games were played.

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY

For the first time since 1911, when Harold H. Hilton won the United States amateur championship, Great Britain has had a finalist in the amateur golf classic of America.

That came when Thomas Phillip Perkins, 24-year-old amateur champion of England doffed his cap on the 14th green of the Brae Burn Country Club course and received the outstretched hand of George Voigt, whom he had just defeated, 6 and 4, in the semi-finals round.

It is beside the point that Bobby Jones came back on the following day and trimmed Perkins 10 up and 9 to play.

Less than a month ago at the Chicago Golf Club, Jones and Perkins, playing No. 1 respectively for the American and British Walker Cup teams engaged in a match that was won by Jones, 3 up and 12 to play, the most decisive defeat in the history of Walker Cup matches.

Perkins Has Gameness

Perkins, however, is a game golfer and the hope that he might be matched with Jones again caused him to remain in America for the amateur championship.

In disposing of Voigt the Englishman's game was never better. Jones said on the eve of the championship round that his victory in the Walker Cup match meant little. It seemed that Jones was right when he shouted a warning in Chicago to, "Look out for Perkins." Jones was of the impression that the Perkins who went down to defeat in Chicago was far from the chap who won the British amateur title last spring.

Perkins made no excuses for his play in the Walker Cup matches. It was generally thought that the sea voyage had quite a bit to do with his showing. It will be remembered that the British team was in America only a few days prior to the matches. "I'm awfully glad to be in the final and more than pleased that I am to play Bobby Jones. Everybody has been so nice to me here in America. Voigt? Ah, yes, a grand golfer. Unlucky too, to have me run down some putts just when I needed them most."

Played Jones, Not Golf

As for the final match. It was just another game for Bobby Jones. To the Englishman, he was [illegible] golfer [illegible] Bobby Jones, [illegible] amateur golfer [illegible] known. If Perkins [illegible] and played his game [illegible] ve given the Georgia phenomenon a great match. Perkins however tried to play Jones and the result was just [illegible] tour title for the American.

Perkins has the chance Harold Hilton grabbed seventeen years ago. Hilton won the American championship over the Apawamis Club course, defeating Fred Herreshoff in the final round on the thirty-seventh green. No British golfer has ever come close to winning until Perkins appeared on the scene this year. The British player deserved his shot at fame. He had to fight every foot of the way to reach the final round.

Another factor in the fate of the British golfers. There was no Bobby Jones to be dealt with when Hilton won the title in 1911.

TWO BATTLES ARE SOUGHT BY TEX

New York Promoter Plans Ristic Engagement For Joe Dundee.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—Tex Rickard expected to close for two important boxing matches today, one a title bout involving the jinx champion of the ring, Joe Dundee of Baltimore.

Rickard has Jack Thompson, California negro conqueror of Dundee, signed to meet any opponent named and was to confer with Max Waxman, Dundee's manager, in hopes of signing the champion today.

The welterweight title bout was planned for Nov. 16 over the 15-round route and at 147 pounds.

If Waxman refuses to sign for Dundee, Rickard, through his matchmaker, Tom McArdle, may ask the New York state athletic commission to declare Dundee null and void as champion and have Thompson meet the winner of the return bout between Sgt. Sammy Baker and Young Corbett, III, for the title.

The other important bout entertained by Rickard was a heavyweight contest between Paolino Uzcudun and Young Stribling, the Georgia flash. Rickard has Paolino signed for three bouts, and Pa Stribling was expected to sign today for his son to meet the Spaniard.

Circleville Invites Good Citizens!

There is always room in any ambitious town for new citizens. And Circleville invites people of good character to come and live here.

Folks from the large and medium sized cities are looking countryward for their future homes. They prefer the peace and contentment of the smaller towns, the pure, unsullied air, the better surroundings for children, and the increased joys of living.

Circleville can bring many of these home seekers into its fold. But we must show them the things that are desirable to new citizens.

Honest government, good schools and churches, a physically and morally clean city, plenty of employment, attractive streets, opportunities for growing children, civic pride and genuine co-operation toward a constantly advancing community—are the things that induce substantial citizens to make their homes here.

Attaining and maintaining these civic qualities depend on the INDIVIDUAL EFFORT AND CO-OPERATION given by our present citizens. LET's all work towards our Ideal City and then be enthusiastic in boosting our town orally at every opportunity.

HURT WHEN AUTO GOES INTO DITCH

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wadsworth, of Lancaster, parents of Mrs. Lawrence Goeller of Circleville, narrowly escaped serious injury in an auto accident Saturday evening on the McArthur pike out of Chillicothe, when a passing car's bumper hooked into the fender of their auto and forced them into a ditch.

The Wadsworth car swerved off the road through a ditch, and struck a telephone pole, breaking it in two.

Mr. Wadsworth received a small cut on the chin. Mrs Wadsworth was slightly bruised.

AUTOS IN CRASH

High corn, obscuring vision, at a junction of the Darbyville pike and Mill road Saturday evening caused a collision between a Ford coupe driven by J. No one was injured in the collision Both cars were badly smashed, the coupe being a mass of twisted steel.

Advertisements bring you useful news

Only yesterday, it seems, we read of balloon tires, radio, electric ranges. Today they count as necessities and magic newcomers are knocking at our doorways . . . electric refrigeration . . . the oil-burning furnace . . . a phonograph that changes its own records.

Even as you read these lines, men in Chicago and Atlanta, Philadelphia and Detroit, are patiently putting together strange devises that, tomorrow, will save labor, cut costs, or give pleasure.

When these inventions become practical, advertisements will be the first to tell you about them: What they will do; how much they cost; where you can get them.

Advertisements bring you personal news, information about the material things that increase your health, comfort and happiness. They tell you the latest practical news phrased in words that are brief, understandable and honest. They help you save money and enjoy the best things in life.

Spend a few minutes each day reading the advertisements—they'll bring you much valuable news

BIBLE THOUGHT

THE BENIGHTED — Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter!— Isa. 5:20.

PRAYER — Lord, lift the light of Thy countenance upon us.

OUR EDUCATIONAL PLANT

One of the country's greatest industries, its schools and colleges, is beginning work again.

The older ideas of operating this plant regarded it as a kind of brain factory ,in which you ran the mind of youth through certain moulds called lessons, and expected a standardized product. But the human mind is elusive, and can not be successfully run through any machine.

The raw material on which this school works, is not like inert metals or textiles on which a mechanical factory operates. It is more like the intangible power of electricity. Like the mysterious flash that illumines the heavens, the human mind can be constructive or destructive.

The strange force that prevades the ether, if handled inexpertly, will burn your dwellings and destroy the work of your hands. But put a good technician on it, and it enters your home or shop as a docile servant, and lights your lamps and turns your machines.

So with our human raw material, our cherished young folks, who are turned into the school plant for development. Handle that material inexpertly, and its powers is spent and wasted, like the lightning flash whose energy is dissipated in miles of atmosphere. Or its destructive power will wreck our social institutions, as the electric flash tears our buildings apart. But guide that mysterious intelligence into useful channels, and it makes happy homes and good communities.

The teachers who are the workmen of America's superb educational plant, need this sympathetic view of their great task. It is not a mere shaping of the mind of youth by drills and lessons, nor a mere filling that mind with facts and information. It is primarily the inspiration of the young people to ideals of industry and moral principle and co-operation.

CITIZENSHIP PURPOSES

September begins the year of activity in our communities and civic organizations. It should be a time not merely for planning for our work and our play, but for new purposes of citizenship. Here are four purposes that each one of us could well form here in Circleville.

1.—That I will know what is going on in the local government of Circleville so that I can vote intelligently at the next local election.

2.—That I will belong to several organizations for the benefit of Circleville and attend the meetings thereof and serve on committees when asked.

3.—That I will take some time during these beautiful autumn months to improve my home place and make it still more of a credit to my street and my city.

4.—That I will give a cordial welcome to newcomers and visitors, and make them feel at home in Circleville.

WOMEN LEGISLATORS

The 48 states chose at their last elections 126 women to represent them in the various legislatures. As this is less than three for each one of the legislatures, the opponents of feminism can feel that the country is still safe.

Woman suffrage was a jolt to many old line politicians. It was like asking a business man to take on a largely new set of customers, whose demands he did not comprehend. The old stand has often failed to produce the goods the women call for.

The politicians met the situation with smiling courtesy, and graciously took the women into their counsels. But the work to be done had often been fixed up at a preliminary male caucus. In due time the women will have their own back room meetings and there will be some men there too.

No doubt the election of Nov. 6, will place many more than 126 women in the various legislative halls. Some alarmists may think the foundations of the republic will be shaken by the alleged emotional outbursts of the women. But the multitude of husbands who always take their wives' advice before doing anything, were at last accounts reported perfectly calm.

A POEM FOR TODAY

By NORMAN W. RALSTON

JUST IN LIVING

THERE'S
A certain
Joy
In living,
There's a certain
Bliss in giving,
Just to be on
Earth today
And to hear what
People say,
Just to feel
Another's hand,
Just to walk
Along life's sand,
Just to hear a
Child's voice sweet
Singing carols
In the street,
Just a smile from
Some old man,
Tossed into life's
Frying pan,
Just a greeting,
Firm and strong
As you walk
The road along,
Just a pleasant
Smile or nod
Gives you
Firmer
Faith in
God—

And what we mean to say
Is,
There is much to make
Men smile,
There is much that
Is worth while;
True, the clouds
Are dark at times,
On our shoulders
Are heaped crimes,
But the good
Supplants the bad,
Folks find life
Is not so sad,
I've decided this
Today:
Life is really
Pretty
Gay.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

PRETTY Janet Wilde is the daughter of Fenimore Wilde, a distinguished actor who has been spoiled by the adulation of his public. He hardly knows how much he depends upon Janet, who, although only twenty-three, mothers him and is virtually a slave to his whims. Janet's brother, a year younger that herself, is a dissipated idler and a spendthrift. What with the father's practice of spending more than his income and the brother's constant demand for money, the the girl is hard put to keep up the little home on the edge of Greenwich village. On the eve of a great opening night for Fenimore Wilde, Janet is invited to lunch with Gordon Pryor, a promising young actor who loves her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER II.

"I THINK we had better not talk about that over the wire," Janet remarked, when Gordon Pryor had warned her that he would propose at lunch.

"Why not—you wonder girl?" the young actor pressed her.

Janet laughed. "You shouldn't have said that over the telephone, Gordon! It required a moonlit garden."

"I have the moonlit beauty of your voice," he began, when again there were sounds of interruption.

"Call for me at one," Janet laughed. "The telephone company is not romantically inclined this morning."

She went downstairs only to ascend again as her father shouted for her.

"I have to see John Montague and lunch with him about tomorrow night," he said with dangerous calm. "It may be important. I do not consider myself of any importance, but I would like to refresh your memory by telling you that the try-out in Stamford was a distinct success. I know it means nothing, but it does happen that Fenimore Wilde opens in a new play by Wyndham Stonor at the Montague Theatre tomorrow night."

"Poor darling, I know how nervous you are when you refer to yourself as 'Fenimore Wilde'," Janet comforted him, trying to banish all thought from her mind of Gordon Pryor. "What is it?"

"If I could have a pair of socks, I should be very, very grateful," her father went on. "I realize that I am asking for an unheard of luxury, but I would be grateful —just for an old pair of socks. Perhaps my son would take pity on me—on his old father—and grant him the loan of a pair of socks."

Opening a drawer in which there were dozens of pairs of socks, Janet handed him what he was looking for, and again left him to go downstairs.

She found her brother Frank looking distastefully at a grapefruit.

"The old man is in a bad temper, isn't he?" he asked casually. "Well, that's nothing new just before an opening. I hope the critics flatter him enough after tomorrow night when I may be able to touch on the question of money."

"If you take my advice, Frank," Janet counseled him, "you won't ask him for a penny. Now I know what I am talking about. If you knew of the bills unpaid—you'd realize."

"And since when has this family been out of debt?" Frank demanded. "There is nothing new in the situation. The old man draws a huge salary and a percentage of the box office, and what he does with his money beats me."

Janet was busy going through her father's mail, opening such letters that she guessed were not purely personal.

"Well, he does this with his money—for example," she remarked dryly, as she glanced at an account. "Here is a little bill from his jeweler. It isn't much—only just over eight hundred!"

"That great and good man, my distinguished father, must have been growing sentimental again," he laughed. "Yet, when his son follows in Father's footsteps, what does he get but reproaches?"

"But there are two slight differences, Frank," his sister reminded him. "With Father, it stops strictly —at sentiment. Bless his heart, he is never vicious."

"Thank you," Frank retorted.

"And the other little difference is that Father makes the money he throws away," Janet went on a little more firmly. "He doesn't expect some one to give it to him, and you must admit that no one on the stage has worked harder than Father."

Frank rose from his place. "I don't see," he complained, "why you must pick a morning when I feel like death to hand out an efficiency lecture. Particularly when I'm broke."

"I suppose you have to have a lot of money," she said, a little timidly. "I have a hundred ieft from my allowance, if that would help."

Frank paused behind her chair and kissed the top of his sister's head.

"You always were a good sport, Janet. The hundred would help no end."

Janet got up and moved to a desk near the window. She produced her check-book and wrote rapidly.

"Thanks a lot, Janet old girl," Frank said lightly. "I have to have some real money before long, because the Wendell Durands are going to their Palm Beach place early this year. Fred Durand wants me to go with him. Still, I'm not going to worry until after Father's opening tomorrow night."

He went out of the room and presently Janet heard him leave the house.

A little later, Fenimore Wilde was heard singing—entirely off key—as he came downstairs. The vocal effort signified that his mood had changed: the great actor was at his sunniest.

He came into the room, magnificent in a brocaded silk dressing gown of black and scarlet, which he had put on over a snowy white shirt and trousers of black and white check. His small feet, of which he was inordinately vain, were encased in patent leather shoes and white spats. Of medium height, in his sixty-fourth year, Fenimore Wilde appeared to be at least ten years younger.

"Marvelous coffee!" he murmured, as Elizabeth, coming from the kitchen, set a savory cup before him. "I always brag at the Lamb's Club, Elizabeth, that you make better coffee than anyone alive. What a comfort you are to me!"

"Don't like your coffee too well, Father," Janet entreated him. "Please don't like it more than two cups."

"One can't have too much of a good thing," he insisted. He paused as he gulped his coffee, gulped again, and sighed to Elizabeth that the cup was empty.

"I am sorry, suh," Elizabeth lied in a good cause, "but there's only one cup more in the kitchen."

"Don't begin your day, my good Elizabeth, with a lie on your lips," he grinned at her with a schoolboy smile. "There are quarts of coffee in the kitchen, and I know it."

Elizabeth sighed, picked up the cup, and went out of the room.

"Father, dear, please be reasonable," Janet said gently. "You know quite well how frightened I was on that dreadful evening when you fainted. Dr. Beck warned you than about your heart, and you promised him and me to go easy on cigarettes and coffee. With an opening tomorrow night, you must be careful. Think of——"

Janet was interrupted by the entrance of Elizabeth, who seemed flurried and impressed.

"Mr. John Montague," she announced, as the producer walked into the room.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

IT is probable you will never be arrested. You may never serve on a jury. But one thing is almost as certain as life itself. And that is, that you will have some illnesses.

The average person is sick on an average of about once every year. This is the conclusion of all health authorities who have made a study of the "incidence of disease," the prevalence of disease.

Not long ago I saw some figures put out by a government agency. These figures were founded on a survey made to determine the numbers and types of illness which people have.

A small inland city was chosen. This was selected because it was regarded as fairly representative of climate, industrial occupation, racial stock and general sanitation. Twice a month for about two and a half years, every house in town was visited to determine the present and past state of health of each member of the family.

The survey revealed on the average 1,0 cases annually of sickness for every 1,000 of t population. Of these illnesses forty percent we severe enough to put the victims to bed.

What do you suppose was the most commo ailment? This survey revealed what all students of disease know, tha colds and bronchitis come first in the list.

These are what we call the "respiratory diseases," diseases of th breathing organs. They are responsible, the world over, for most o our ailments. If we were to add influenza, grippe and pneumonia, the respiratory diseases would account for almost sixty percent of our disabilities.

What can we do to reduce the tremendous economic loss and the misery caused by colds and bronchitis? Can we actually control or, at least, lessen the incidence of these diseases?

There are some things we can do to escape colds. We can avoid certain practices which are among the causes of these too common ailments.

Colds, influenza and the resulting bronchitis are hand-conveyed diseases. Contaminated moisture from the nose and mouth of one person reaches his hands and is passed to the hand of another. The second person rubs his nose or puts his fingers in his own mouth, thus carrying the unfriendly germs, which are eager to originate another cold.

The importance of clean hands—frequent cleansing of the hands with soap and water—cannot be overlooked. If you are under the necessity of contact with a person who has a cold, you must avoid getting the moisture from his breathing machinery, either out of the air or through the medium of the hands.

Never eat or go to bed without thorough washing of hands, face an entrance to the nostrils. A litt care in this one of several matte will save you lots of colds.

BIBLE THOUGHT

THE BENIGHTED — Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter!— Isa. 5:20.

PRAYER — Lord, lift the light of Thy countenance upon us.

OUR EDUCATIONAL PLANT

One of the country's greatest industries, its schools and colleges, is beginning work again.

The older ideas of operating this plant regarded it as a kind of brain factory, in which you ran the mind of youth through certain moulds called lessons, and expected a standardized product. But the human mind is elusive, and can not be successfully run through any machine.

The raw material on which this school works, is not like inert metals or textiles on which a mechanical factory operates. It is more like the intangible power of electricity. Like the mysterious flash that illumines the heavens, the human mind can be constructive or destructive.

The strange force that prevades the ether, if handled inexpertly, will burn your dwellings and destroy the work of your hands. But put a good technician on it, and it enters your home or shop as a docile servant, and lights your lamps and turns your machines.

So with our human raw material, our cherished young folks, who are turned into the school plant for development. Handle that material inexpertly, and a powers is spent and wasted, like the lightning flash whose energy is dissipated in miles of atmosphere. Or its destructive power will wreck our social institutions, as the electric flash tears our buildings apart. But guide that mysterious intelligence into useful channels, and it makes happy homes and good communities.

The teachers who are the workmen of America's superb educational plant, need this sympathetic view of their great task. It is not a mere shaping of the mind of youth by drills and lessons, nor a mere filling that mind with facts and information. It is primarily the inspiration of the young people to ideals of industry and moral principle and co-operation.

CITIZENSHIP PURPOSES

September begins the year of activity in our communities and civic organizations. It should be a time not merely for planning for our work and our play, but for new purposes of citizenship. Here are four purposes that each one of us could well form here in Circleville.

1.—That I will know what is going on in the local government of Circleville so that I can vote intelligently at the next local election.

2.—That I will belong to several organizations for the benefit of Circleville and attend the meetings thereof and serve on committees when asked.

3.—That I will take some time during these beautiful autumn months to improve my home place and make it still more of a credit to my street and my city.

4.—That I will give a cordial welcome to newcomers and visitors, and make them feel at home in Circleville.

WOMEN LEGISLATORS

The 48 states chose at their last elections 126 women to represent them in the various legislatures. As this is less than three for each one of the legislatures, the opponents of feminism can feel that the country is still safe.

Woman suffrage was a jolt to many old line politicians. It was like asking a business man to take on a largely new set of customers, whose demands he did not comprehend. The old stand has often failed to produce the goods the women call for.

The politicians met the situation with smiling courtesy, and graciously took the women into their counsels. But the work to be done had often been fixed up at a preliminary male caucus. In due time the women will have their own back room meetings and there will be some men there too.

No doubt the election of Nov. 6, will place many more than 126 women in the various legislative halls. Some alarmists may think the foundations of the republic will be shaken by the alleged emotional outbursts of the women. But the multitude of husbands who always take their wives' advice before doing anything, were at last accounts reported perfectly calm.

A POEM FOR TODAY

By NORMAN W. RALSTON

JUST IN LIVING

THERE'S
A certain
Joy
In living,
There's a certain
Bliss in giving,
Just to be on
Earth today
And to hear what
People say,
Just to feel
Another's hand,
Just to walk
Along life's sand,
Just to hear a
Child's voice sweet
Singing carols
In the street,
Just a smile from
Some old man,
Tossed into life's
Frying pan,
Just a greeting,
Firm and strong
As you walk
The road along,
Just a pleasant
Smile or nod
Gives you
Firmer
Faith in God—

And what we mean to say
Is,
There is much to make
Men smile,
There is much that
Is worth while;
True, the clouds
Are dark at times,
On our shoulders
Are heaped crimes,
But the good
Supplants the bad,
Folks find life
Is not so sad,
I've decided this
Today:
Life is really
Pretty
Gay.

HURRAY FOR THE BULL

Broadway Love

by Thomas Edgelow

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

PRETTY Janet Wilde is the daughter of Fenimore Wilde, a distinguished actor who has been spoiled by the adulation of his public. He hardly knows how much he depends upon Janet, who, although only twenty-three, mothers him and is virtually a slave to his whims. Janet's brother, a year younger that herself, is a dissipated idler and a spendthrift. What with the father's practice of spending more than his income and the brother's constant demand for money, the the girl is hard put to keep up the little home on the edge of Greenwich village. On the eve of a great opening night for Fenimore Wilde, Janet is invited to lunch with Gordon Pryor, a promising young actor who loves her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER II.

"I THINK we had better not talk about that over the wire," Janet remarked, when Gordon Pryor had warned her that he would propose at lunch.

"Why not—you wonder girl?" the young actor pressed her.

Janet laughed. "You shouldn't have said that over the telephone, Gordon! It required a moonlit garden."

"I have the moonlit beauty of your voice," he began, when again there were sounds of interruption.

"Call for me at one," Janet laughed. "The telephone company is not romantically inclined this morning."

She went downstairs only to ascend again as her father shouted for her.

"I have to see John Montague and lunch with him about tomorrow night," he said with dangerous calm. "It may be important. I do not consider myself of any importance, but I would like to refresh your memory by telling you that the try-out in Stamford was a distinct success. I know it means nothing, but it does happen that Fenimore Wilde opens in a new play by Wyndham Stonor at the Montague Theatre tomorrow night."

"Poor darling. I know how nervous you are when you refer to yourself as 'Fenimore Wilde'." Janet comforted him, trying to banish all thought from her mind of Gordon Pryor. "What is it?"

"If I could have a pair of socks, I should be very, very grateful," her father went on. "I realize that I am asking for an unheard of luxury, but I would be grateful—just for an old pair of socks. Perhaps my son would take pity on me—on his old father—and grant him the loan of a pair of socks."

Opening a drawer in which there were dozens of pairs of socks, Janet handed him what he was looking for, and again left him to go downstairs.

She found her brother Frank looking distastefully at a grapefruit.

"The old man is in a bad temper, isn't he?" he asked casually. "Well, that's nothing new just before an opening. I hope the critics flatter him enough after tomorrow night when I may be able to touch on the question of money."

"If you take my advice, Frank," Janet counseled him, "you won't ask him for a penny. Now I know what I am talking about. If you knew of the bills unpaid—you'd realize."

"And since when has this family been out of debt?" Frank demanded. "There is nothing new in the situation. The old man draws a huge salary and a percentage of the box office, and what he does with his money beats me."

Janet was busy going through her father's mail, opening such letters that she guessed were not purely personal.

"Well, he does this with his money—for example," she remarked dryly, as she glanced at an account. "Here is a little bill from his jeweler. It isn't much—only just over eight hundred!"

"That great and good man, my distinguished father, must have been growing sentimental again," he laughed. "Yet, when his son follows in Father's footsteps, what does he get but reproaches?"

"But there are two slight differences, Frank," his sister reminded him. "With Father, it stops strictly—at sentiment. Bless his heart, he is never vicious."

"Thank you," Frank retorted.

"And the other little difference is that Father makes the money he throws away," Janet went on a little more firmly. "He doesn't expect some one to give it to him, and you must admit that no one on the stage has worked harder than Father."

Frank rose from his place. "I don't see," he complained, "why you must pick a morning when I feel like death to hand out an efficiency lecture. Particularly when I'm broke."

"I suppose you have to have a lot of money," she said, a little timidly. "I have a hundred left from my allowance, if that would help."

Frank paused behind her chair and kissed the top of his sister's head.

Janet got up and moved to a desk near the window. She produced her check-book and wrote rapidly.

"Thanks a lot, Janet old girl," Frank said lightly. "I have to have some real money before long, because the Wendell Durands are going to their Palm Beach place early this year. Fred Durand wants me to go with him. Still, I'm not going to worry until after Father's opening tomorrow night."

He went out of the room and presently Janet heard him leave the house.

A little later, Fenimore Wilde was heard singing—entirely off key—as he came downstairs. The vocal effort signified that his mood had changed: the great actor was at his sunniest.

He came into the room, magnificent in a brocaded silk dressing gown of black and scarlet, which he had put on over a snowy white shirt and trousers of black and white check. His small feet, of which he was inordinately vain, were encased in patent leather shoes and white spats. Of medium height, in his sixty-fourth year, Fenimore Wilde appeared to be at least ten years younger.

"Marvelous coffee!" he murmured, as Elizabeth, coming from the kitchen, set a savory cup before him. "I always brag at the Lamb's Club, Elizabeth, that you make better coffee than anyone alive. What a comfort you are to me!"

"Don't like your coffee too well, Father," Janet entreated him. "Please don't like it more than two cups."

"One can't have too much of a good thing," he insisted. He paused as he gulped his coffee, gulped again, and sighed to Elizabeth that the cup was empty.

"I am sorry, suh," Elizabeth lied in a good cause, "but there's only one cup more in the kitchen."

"Don't begin your day, my good Elizabeth, with a lie on your lips," he grinned at her with a schoolboy smile. "There are quarts of coffee in the kitchen, and I know it."

Elizabeth sighed, picked up the cup, and went out of the room.

"Father, dear, please be reasonable," Janet said gently. "You know quite well how frightened I was on that dreadful evening when you fainted. Dr. Beck warned you than about your heart, and you promised him and me to go easy on cigarettes and coffee. With an opening tomorrow night, you must be careful. Think of——"

Janet was interrupted by the entrance of Elizabeth, who seemed flurried and impressed.

"Mr. John Montague," she announced, as the producer walked into the room.

Advertisements bring you useful news

Only yesterday, it seems, we read of balloon tires, radio, electric ranges. Today they count as necessities and magic newcomers are knocking at our doorways . . . electric refrigeration . . . the oil-burning furnace . . . a phonograph that changes its own records.

Even as you read these lines, men in Chicago and Atlanta, Philadelphia and Detroit, are patiently putting together strange devises that, tomorrow, will save labor, cut costs, or give pleasure.

When these inventions become practical, advertisements will be the first to tell you about them: What they will do; how much they cost; where you can get them.

Advertisements bring you personal news, information about the material things that increase your health, comfort and happiness. They tell you the latest practical news phrased in words that are brief, understandable and honest. They help you save money and enjoy the best things in life.

Spend a few minutes each day reading the advertisements—they'll bring you much valuable news

EXTEND OPEN WEEK AT COUNTRY CLUB

The open week policy which has been followed at the Pickaway Country club since Sept. 16th, will be extended another week. The bad weather of the past week, kept many from enjoying the privilege of visiting the club, either to play golf or merely to inspect the course and club house.

The club invites everyone who is interested in the club to visit this week, but all parties must be accompanied by a present member. The cool weather is perfect for a couple of rounds of golf, after business hours.

THREE NOW HELD IN RAID ON STILL

Wesley Kerns and A. C. Norman Arrested By Sheriff On Saturday.

All men believed to have been connected with the operation of the huge distillery found by the sheriff's department last week on the Jemima Dungan farm, Wayne-twp., have been apprehended following the arrest of Wesley Kerns and A. C. Norman, late Saturday.

Norman at the time of the raid denied any knowledge of the distillery and was hired to haul the evidence to the county jail. He was to be given a preliminary hearing before J. W. Adkins, probate judge, Monday. Norman was the tenant on the farm. The still was located about 300 yards from the house.

Arthur Knece, arrested shortly after the still was found, is being held in the county jail.

Wesley Kerns was arrested by Sheriff Frank Davis Saturday night and gave $1,000 bond pending his hearing, Sept. 27, according to the sheriff's department.

The still is the largest ever confiscated in Pickaway-co. having a capacity of 150 gallons.

500 ARRESTED IN RAIDS AT CHIGAGO

Criminals Are Seized In Gambling and Bootlegging Houses.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—In a series of police raids on gambling houses and bootlegging establishments, said to have been ordered by police commisioner, William Russell, 500 arrests were made during Sunday and last night.

Evidence obtained and the confessions of some of the prisoners, police said, solved scores of robberies and several major crimes of past months.

Charles Stanley, 26,, who was taken in the raids is said to have confessed to implication in two murders, the shooting and wounding of two policemen and 35 robberies. Deputy Commissioner John Stege regarded Stanley as the most important of those seized.

Stanley told police that one of his companions, known as "Big Leo" shot Policemen Allen Carroll and John Fogarty when the officers attempted to disarm the men in a West Side cafe, the Turkish village, last Thursday.

Leo and a man known as Walter Ingram killed a watchman in a West Side saloon a few weeks earlier, Stanley said. Police raided Ingram's home and found a large quantity of ammunition.

Seventy-four persons were arrested in the Maxwell street district, commanded by Capt. Luke Garrick. The recent bombing of Garrick's home was laid to gang retaliations for his clean-up activities.

WOUNDED GUNMAN PLACED IN PRISON

Cleveland Authorities Fear Attempt To Free Policeman's Slayer.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24 — Paul Jawarski, escaped convict and killer of Patrolman Anthony Weiczorek, today was imprisoned in the hospital ward of county jail instead of the prison ward of city hospital.

Fears of an attempted rescue by members of his old "flattered gang" caused his removal from the hospital Sunday after physicians said his condition had improved sufficiently to permit the trip.

Six squads of detectives and police, led by Safety Director Edwin D. Barry, assigned to stand guard over the slayer.

Jawarski is scheduled to go on trial Oct. 22 for the murder of Patrolman Wieczorex. Believed to have been fatally wounded in the gun battle with police Sept. 13, Jawarski has gained strength rapidly and is now said to be beyond danger of death from its wounds.

HOLE IN ONE CLUB LOSES NEW MEMBER

Earl Rader, of Fox Postoffice, just missed being a member of "The Hole in One" club, by two and a half inches Sunday at the Pickaway Country club. Earl stood on the 8th tee of the golf course and smacked a beauty that landed on the green, and then headed toward the hole.

But a tiny tuft of grass stood in the way and the slowly moving ball was pushed aside just enough to keep Mr. Rader from making the hole. It looked like such a sure thing, that Will Hamilton who had offered a prize of a box of half a dozen golf balls to the player who first made a hole in one shot, had the presentation speech all ready.

It was reported at the club that the hole had been made in one.

Mr. Rader was driving with an iron on the fairway which is nearly 240 yards long.

the carmine. I thought of the unhappiness of their mothers as I saw them stretch their bare arms to their dancing partners, who whirled their barely clad bodies in the mad dancing, but I was disgusted with the gorgeously gowned matrons, stalking through the cabarets, trying to cover their sinful hearts with a thin layer of silk.

WILDER THAN WEST

"It hurts me to think of the thousands of young Americans who come here imagining they are on a lark; without chaperones.

"If only their parents knew that Montmartre is wilder and dirtier than the tinselled dance halls of the old, wild west.

"What an atmosphere; what pitfalls. Everywhere the popping of corks; girls and boys on high chairs bent over bars or girls with baby faces letting strangers encircle their waists on the dance floor.

"These orgies are worse than Rome. They last from sunset to dawn. They make me ask where is France's reason? Where are her churches?

WANTS REVIVAL THERE

"It is too awful to describe but some day there will be a reckoning and they will pay for every vile kiss which has crushed the lips of callous companions.

"Paris is like a white sepulchre, a burial place of thousands of rotted souls.

"I would love to hold a revival here and clean out the shadows and pull the spiders from the webs where jazz is driving people crazy.

"The more I see of Paris and Montmartre, the more happy I am to be an American.

"At home at least we never liberate such commercialized deviltry.

THREE NOW HELD IN RAID ON STILL

Wesley Kerns and A. C. Norman Arrested By Sheriff On Saturday.

All men believed to have been connected with the operation of the huge distillery found by the sheriff's department last week on the Jemima Dungan farm, Wayne-twp., have been apprehended following the arrest of Wesley Kerns and A. C. Norman, late Saturday.

Norman at the time of the raid denied any knowledge of the distillery and was hired to haul the evidence to the county jail. He was to be given a preliminary hearing before J. W. Adkins, probate judge, Monday. Norman was the tenant on the farm. The still was located about 300 yards from the house.

Arthur Knece, arrested shortly after the still was found, is being held in the county jail.

Wesley Kerns was arrested by Sheriff Frank Davis Saturday night and gave $1,000 bond pending his hearing Sept. 27, according to the sheriff's department.

The still is the largest ever confiscated in Pickaway-co. having a capacity of 150 gallons.

500 ARRESTED IN RAIDS AT CHIGAGO

Criminals Are Seized In Gambling and Bootlegging Houses.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—In a seies of police raids on gambling houses and bootlegging establishments, said to have been ordered by police commisioner, William Russell, 500 arrests were made during Sunday and last night.

Evidence obtained and the confessions of some of the prisoners, police said, solved scores of robberies and several major crimes of past months.

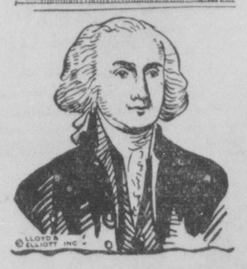
Charles Stanley, 26,, who was taken in the raids is said to have confessed to implication in two murders, the shooting and wounding of two policemen and 35 robberies. Deputy Commissioner John Stege regarded Stanley as the most important of those seized.

Stanley told police that one of his companions, known as "Big Leo" shot Policemen Allen Carroll and John Fogarty when the officers attempted to disarm the men in a West Side cafe, the Turkish village, last Thursday.

Leo and a man known as Walter Ingram killed a watchman in a West Side saloon a few weeks earlier, Stanley said. Police raided Ingram's home and found a large quantity of ammunition.

Seventy-four persons were arrested in the Maxwell street district, commanded by Capt. Luke Garrick. The recent bombing of Garrick's home was laid to gang retaliations for his clean-up activities.

Graphic Outlines of History



THE HOME OF PRES. MADISON

This home, located in Montpelier, was, at one time, in danger of bein taken by an invading army. As Mrs. Madison was escaping she snatched up a portrait of Washington which now hangs in the Blue Room of the White House.

The immediate assumption of all responsibilities by an experienced and courteous staff is the result, if the service is placed in our hands.

WOUNDED GUNMAN PLACED IN PRISON

Cleveland Authorities Fear Attempt To Free Policeman's Slayer.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24 — Paul Jawarski, escaped convict and killer of Patrolman Anthony Weiczorek, today was imprisoned in the hospital ward of county jail instead of the prison ward of city hospital.

Fears of an attempted rescue by members of his old "flattered gang" caused his removal from the hospital Sunday after physicians said his condition had improved sufficiently to permit the trip.

Six squads of detectives and police, led by Safety Director Edwin D. Barry, assigned to stand guard over the slayer.

Jawarski is scheduled to go on trial Oct. 22 for the murder of Patrolman Wieczorex. Believed to have been fatally wounded in the gun battle with police Sept. 13, Jawarski has gained strength rapidly and is now said to be beyond danger of death from its wounds.

HOLE IN ONE CLUB LOSES NEW MEMBER

Earl Rader, of Fox Postoffice, just missed being a member of "The Hole in One" club, by two and a half inches Sunday at the Pickaway Country club. Earl stood on the 8th tee of the golf course and smacked a beauty that landed on the green, and then headed toward the hole.

But a tiny tuft of grass stood in the way and the slowly moving ball was pushed aside just enough to keep Mr. Rader from making the hole. It looked like such a sure thing, that Will Hamilton who had offered a prize of a box of half a dozen golf balls to the player who first made a hole in one shot, had the presentation speech all ready.

It was reported at the club that the hole had been made in one.

Mr. Rader was driving with an iron on the fairway which is nearly 240 yards long.

the carmine. I thought of the unhappiness of their mothers as I saw them stretch their bare arms to their dancing partners, who whirled their barely clad bodies in the mad dancing, but I was disgusted with the gorgeously gowned matrons, stalking through the cabarets, trying to cover their sinful hearts with a thin layer of silk.

WILDER THAN WEST

"It hurts me to think of the thousands of young Americans who come here imagining they are on a lark; without chaperones.

"If only their parents knew that Montmartre is wilder and dirtier than the tinselled dance halls of the old, wild west.

"What an atmosphere; what pitfalls. Everywhere the popping of corks; girls and boys on high chairs bent over bars or girls with baby faces letting strangers encircle their waists on the dance floor.

"These orgies are worse than Rome. They last from sunset to dawn. They make me ask where is France's reason? Where are her churches?

WANTS REVIVAL THERE

"It is too awful to describe but some day there will be a reckoning and they will pay for every vile kiss which has crushed the lips of callous companions.

"Paris is like a white sepulchre, a burial place of thousands of rotted souls.

"I would love to hold a revival here and clean out the shadows and pull the spiders from the webs where jazz is driving people crazy.

"The more I see of Paris and Montmartre, the more happy I am to be an American.

"At home at least we never liberate such commercialized deviltry.
